

A night photograph of a city street. The left side of the image is dominated by a vertical, green-tinted area, possibly a window or a wall, with some vertical lines and a small light fixture visible. The right side shows a dark street at night, filled with numerous out-of-focus lights in various colors (white, yellow, orange, blue), creating a bokeh effect. A prominent, bright, vertical light fixture is visible in the upper right quadrant.
